Vol. 5, No. 5

Tuesday, Oct. 7, 1952

Provo, Utah

"I believe the time has come to stick with the facts and to lift our voices in the interests of truth."

Dirksen Says . . .

"The Republican party is best hope for golden goal of peace."

"Patience, wisdom, while death stalks Korea—is that what you want from Harry Truman and Adlai Stevenson? And don't forget that Adlai is Harry's boy."

"There around the Council tables at Yalta we (Democratic administration) sold Chiang Kai-Shek and the Chinese republic into the arms of Joseph Stalin."

"When you get your degree at the Truman school of history you will have to come back to BYU to unlearn it and get the real facts."

"Develop a fresh perspective and get our feet on the ground, notwithstanding the bubble that comes from the whistle-stopping train."

"They (Democrats) set the stage for what is happening in Korea today."

Casting, Practice Underway For Shakespeare Production

Casting is virtually complete and daily rehearsals are underway for the October 22 opening of Shakespeare's "Hamlet." Prince of Denmark," according to an announcement by Dr. Harold I. Hansen, speech department chairman and director of the play.

Taking the role of the ill-fated prince will be Lay Woodbury, while his lady love, Ophelia, will be played by JoAnn Green. Claudius, King of Denmark, will be portrayed by Rue Johnson and Gertrude, Queen of Denmark, will be played by Ray Punsy. Fortinbras, King of Norway, will be played by Ray Baird. The Captain, Richard Brannock, Osear, and Anne Rasmussen, Carol Warr, Florence Lindvall, and Jeanne Player Queen, Rosencrantz and Guiltenstern, Hamlet's friends, will be played by Robert Morrow and Clyde Ricks respectively.

Others in the cast include Norman White as Bernardo; Carl Martineau, Francisco; Noel Quinn, Marcellus; Gerald Wilde, Reynaldo; Roy Punsy, Fortinbras; Ray Baird, the Captain; Richard Brannock, Osear; and Anne Rasmussen, Carol Warr; Florence Lindvall, and Jeanne Player Queen, Rosencrantz and Truman Says . . .

"... The basic spirit, the fundamental outlook, of the Democratic party will continue to guide our government in all its tasks as a servant of the people, and as a leader of the world."

"Governor Stevenson ranks as perhaps the best informed and most skilled student and practitioner of the great art of government. That is why I have such confidence, that when he comes to Washington, he will continue to improve the government machinery—to perfect it and make it the most efficient instrument of service to the people."

"The fact is, the Republican party just does not seem able to see or understand what it takes to meet the menace of communist aggression and subversion."

"I have done my best, these seven years, to keep the quality of the Federal Service high—to attract good people and keep them in their jobs—to defend them against unfair and unproven attacks. I have had some disappointments, now and then along the way. But, overall, I am proud of the result—proud and rather confident that history will bear me out."

"It's the same old Republican party, no matter who may carry the banner out front. It's the same old party that has opposed every progressive step these past 20 years. . . It is the party without faith, without vision, without courage."

"We can take credit for a great many expressions of faith in the last few years—the United Nations, the Marshall Plan, the North Atlantic Treaty, the Japanese Treaty, the Point Four program. So far, our faith has been rewarded."

Crown Seeking Coeds Receive One 'Day' Extension

A one day extension for submitting petitions was granted to Homecoming Queen hopefuls this week, according to Jack Clawson, queen chairman.

Formerly announced as 5 p.m. today, the deadline has been extended until 4 p.m. tomorrow. Petitions carrying 100 signatures must be submitted at the Student Coordinator's office.

A meeting for all candidates and their managers will be held at 5 p.m. tomorrow in room 245 Smith after the petitions have been collected. It is imperative that every one concerned attend, Mr. Clawson stressed.

Harless Y Frosh Wear Cougar Cub Costumes Today and Wednesday

"The apparent attitude of freshmen yesterday has made us feel that a more extensive enforcement of rules regarding Frosh Week is necessary," said Harold Christensen, president of the senior class and chairman of the week's activities.

All freshmen know the regulations, which include a Cougar Cub costume consisting of a blue and white tail at least two feet long, a black nose resembling that of a cougar, whiskers, kitten ears, and one blue and one white sock. Their admiration for upperclassmen will be shown in a number of ways such as carrying books, opening doors, shifting shoes, and in all ways "respecting their elders."

Weekend's Events Aim for Friendship

Brigham Young's "home game" with the University of Utah, Saturday in the Ule stadium will mark an era of good feeling between the two schools, win or lose, according to AMS officers of both schools.

Following the traditional grid battle, a Cougar-Ute football frolic will be held in the Utah student building for combined student bodies. Sponsors of the dance will be Associated Men's organizations at both the U and the Y. George Williams, Mes Vegas, and Don Van Slooten, Los Angeles, are co-chairmen for BYU. Plans call for the event to become an annual affair, they said.

A pre-game rally will be held Friday in the Y stadium and will be followed by a downtown street dance for the entire student body.

AMS officers indicated that a caravan from BYU to the Utah stadium will form at 3:30 p.m. Saturday, and is expected to include all students and other Cougar leaders planning to attend the game. Escorting the caravan will be state highway patrolmen.

All BYU students will be adorned with the game on their tivity cards, and the after-game dance will be free.

Details of the rally and caravan will be published Thursday in the UNIVERSE.

Costumes must be worn at all times between classes today and Wednesday from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., and attendance at the mat dance this afternoon is compulsory.

Wednesday the cubs will make the annual trek to the Y on the mountain to clean brush away, and if the botany point is more inviting, upperclassmen are very eager to comply with their wishes.

The only alternative to non-participation in the week's events will be Senior Court Thursday night in the football stadium. All upperclassmen are equipped with tickets to the event and will be delighted to give to any freshmen not participating during the week. Those possessing tickets will attend the court of their own will or otherwise.

Relieved freshmen will be eligible and expected to attend the huge rally to be held Friday night in the stadium in anticipation of the Utah-BYU gridiron fight Saturday in Salt Lake City.

Lloyd Appoints Event Heads

Nine members of a ten-man general homecoming committee were named Friday by Dr. Wesley P. Lloyd, Dean of Students.

Headed by Dr. Royden C. Brattwaite, the committee consists of six faculty members and four students including general student chairman Gene Owsen, "Toots," who was previously appointed.

Working with Dr. Brattwaite and Mr. Owsen in formulating homecoming plans and policy will be Mrs. Lillian C. Booth, Edwin Butterworth, Edwin R. Kinnhal, Prof. J. Roman Anderson, Dr. Harold Glen Clark, Cleon Sloumen, student body president Leroy Porter, AWS president Kathy Latimer and AMS president Bill Galt.

Many plans for the annual event have been prepared and formulated by the student committee, but official approval of all ideas had been awaiting appointment of the general committee.

"With full authority as representatives of the University we can move forward rapidly on Homecoming proceedings," said Mr. Owsen following the first meeting of the general committee with President Ernest L. Wilkinson Monday afternoon.

Y Cheer Leader Aspirants Tryout Today in Stadium

Members of the Legislative Council will select this year's cheer leaders today from tryouts at the stadium from 4 to 6 p.m. Members of the student body are invited to attend the tryouts.

All persons interested in trying out for cheer leader positions have until noon today to make application in the student body office. ASBYU president, Leroy Porter announced.

Housing Forum Administrators Explain University's Policies

Why should BYU students live in houses approved by the university? Why should off-campus students have to abide by the same rules as campus students? Do students have to put up with poor living conditions?

These and many other pertinent questions and problems were discussed and answered at the AMS-sponsored housing forum held in the Smith auditorium Tuesday evening.

These people explained the purpose of the approved housing plan from the standpoint of the faculty, students, parents, and members of the Board of Trustees. The plan involves nearly 800 Provo homes. Students participated in the discussion.

Plans and publicity for the forum were arranged by Claude Thomas, AMS vice-president, and Weston Edwards, councilman. Bill Gallagher, AMS president commented, "This is the first forum in an attempt to air student problems and create interest in school activities. We urge more students to participate."

Student Placement Needs Set Forth

Approximately 1600 students have registered with the Brigham Young University Student Placement Bureau. B. Keith Duffin, placement director announced today.

Mr. Duffin stated that the volume of jobs needed this year will exceed the 1200 jobs available during the 1951-52 academic year. Although 450 jobs, both temporary and regular, have been found for students to date by the bureau, the director said he anticipates a need for at least 400 jobs more this year.

A special appeal is being made by Mr. Duffin and his associates to downtown merchants to take advantage of the outstanding student employee opportunity this year. High type students are available for positions requiring skilled labor, salesmanship, and domestic skill. "People who have to work are likely to do a good job. Response from the merchants has been fine and we are expecting even greater cooperation as jobs become available," declared Mr. Duffin.

Anyone who is interested can call Provo 2460, extension 365.

Course Variety Set For Y Engineers

The new department of engineering science at Brigham Young University offers courses of instruction in such fields as acoustical, chemical, civil, electrical, geological, and mechanical engineering.

Each of these branches will offer a complete curriculum leading to a Bachelor's degree in engineering science. Upon completion of the Baccalaureate program the Master's engineering science degree can be obtained by an additional year of studying only professional engineering subjects.

Arrangements have been made with Columbia University, New York City, to accept candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Science in engineering upon the successful completion of either three or four years of undergraduate work here—this degree being conferred after the successful completion of five years work.

Negotiations are also underway with nearby industrial firms to provide part-time employment for students enrolled in various branches of engineering science. This work is intended to supplement university work by providing actual experience in one or more fields of professional work.

A memorandum from the Office of Defense Mobilization received recently by Dr. Harvey Fletcher, acting head of the Department of Engineering Science states that there is a shortage of engineers of all kinds and urges that boards as well as the Department of Defense to reconsider before calling to active military service any men with such technical training.

University Traffic Controls Set for Strict Enforcement

The Office of Buildings and Grounds announced today that all regulations for traffic control on the campus will be strictly enforced, especially stop sign and speeding violations. Glen Hanks, Brigham Young University police officer asks student cooperation in parking vehicles in the designated lots.

In an effort to help students, faculty and employees driving vehicles on campus, a traffic code has been established to help use campus roadways and parking areas to maximum efficiency if observed by everyone driving on the campus.

Traffic campus code includes: All motorized vehicles operating on the BYU campus must be registered at Room 30 N and must display a sticker as evidence of such registration.

The following cash fines and/or penalties shall be assessed against the operator and/or owner of a vehicle for violation of university traffic regulations:

1. Failure to register vehicle and display sticker — $1.00.
2. Driving or parking in a registered area during restricted hours (7 a.m. to 5 p.m. school days) or for other parking violation — $1.00.
3. Parking in front of any traffic marker such as to prevent the free use of the roadway in an emergency by police, fire department, ambulance or service vehicles — $3.00.
4. Obstructing any roadway or crosswalk — $2.00.
5. Reckless driving or careless operation which might endanger the safety of pedestrians or others — $2.00.
6. Molesing any traffic sign or marker or driving along any barricaded or closed roadway — $2.00.
7. Tampering with a traffic ticket or interfering in any way with a traffic officer or other employee of the university while such person is on traffic duty — $2.00.

8. Operating a motor vehicle in excess of 15 miles per hour maximum speed limit — $2.00.

9. Failure to stop at a stop sign — $2.00.

10. Riding a bicycle, motorbike or scooter at any hour on the Second East hillside entrance road when such road is officially closed — $2.00.

11. Driving an automobile or truck at any hour on the Second East hillside road when such road is officially closed — $2.00.

Payment of fines shall be made at the Treasurer's office. Amount of the cash fine automatically doubles at 5 p.m. of the third school day following the offense. Unpaid violations will result in withholding of credits and denial of readmission to the university. Any person receiving a traffic ticket may appeal to the traffic committee, composed of the chairman of the attendance and scholarship committee, student body president, and a member appointed from the faculty.

All regulations have been established for the general benefit of students, faculty, patrons and others who use the BYU campus, and may be changed as circumstances require. Such changes will be posted or published in the UNIVERSE.

GOP Solons Talk Today on "Truth"

The Utah County Republican organization invites all BYU students and citizens of Provo to hear the "Truth Squad" answer President Truman's speech to night at 8 p.m. in the fieldhouse. The "Truth Squad" is a group of four United States Senators: Ferguson of Michigan, Hickenlooper of Iowa, Case of South Dakota, Millikin of Colorado, who have been following President Truman as he goes across country on his whistle stop tour. Their purpose is to answer questions and charges which the President makes and send the Republican point of view.

USE YOUR HEADS

At this particular time of 1952 it is wise to ask ourselves the question, "Just what are my interests and obligations regarding November 4th?"

As students we must take an objective view, discard the mud-slinging and slander so evident in a political campaign of this type; constructively criticize and analyze any speech we might hear; and as an outgrowth of these varied experiences gain our own personal convictions. Here on the Brigham Young University campus we have been given a marvelous opportunity to hear statements actively debating the political issues of the day, and the thought comes to mind that how much nicer it would be to hear the views and aims of the party itself rather than a constant dragging down of the opposition.

An indirect challenge was made by President Wilkinson in his introduction of Senator Dirksen when he stated, "Any person who does not have his own personal convictions at this time with respect to the coming election should be deprived of his American citizenship." However harsh this may sound at first, the challenge is well-justified. As American citizens it is our duty and privilege to take an active interest in the government of our country. Any inactivity on our part this November could seriously impair our personal freedom.

Campaign issues have been torn apart and discussed pro and con but an appeal is made to those campaigning around the country as to how much nicer it would be to state their definite views on issues and not constantly tear apart their opponent.

Where the Money Goes...

Dear Editor:

In last Thursday's issue of the UNIVERSE, Reed Langlois requested information and action on the Y Bell Shrine—a request undoubtedly shared by many members of the student body. Here is the information; action will follow.

Plans for the shrine have already been drawn by university architect Fred L. Markham, and $1000 of the estimated $3000 cost is in safekeeping at the treasurer's office in a fund clearly earmarked "Y Bell Shrine." Action to this extent reflects the work of committees for several years, but most notably that of the group which directed proceedings last spring.

Work on the project was abruptly halted when President Wilkinsoh withheld approval for pushing the structure to completion until enough money had been collected to cover the entire cost. We appreciated President Wilkinsoh's position since the shrine was initiated as a project of campus service organizations who wished it to remain as such.

Attention has already been given this fall to the project. Jack Clawson has been appointed Blue Key chairman to organize a committee for raising funds. His enthusiasm has already prompted several ideas that should assure success of the project. The deficit in the fund could be remedied with an amount equal to approximately 30c per student and a supplementary surplus from one of last year's social events.

Barring some unforeseen complications we express the confidence of all service units that our goal will be realized this year.

Sincerely,

Rod Filmore,
Blue Key president

CONFERENCE HIGHLIGHTS

A plea to the members of the church to return to God, and His righteous path permeated the messages delivered to the thousands of faithful church members who assembled at Temple Square last weekend to hear the admonitions of the prophets. Presiding over all Conference sessions was President David O. McKay.

Speaking of politics, President McKay emphasized that the position of the church was impartial, but that the church felt it was necessary for all its members to show their appreciation of their franchise by voting and exercising the right to say who is put in public offices.

Reference was made to the revealed word of the Lord, concerning the use that should be made of power and authority, and that the duty of church members was to see that principles of righteousness were upheld.

"Gain a knowledge of the scriptures and the commandments contained therein that you might have the wisdom to discern right from wrong," admonished President Joseph F. Smith, President of the Council of the Twelve. He sounded a note of caution Saturday, when he cautioned:

"So far as the philosophy and wisdom the world are concerned, they mean nothing unless they conform to the revealed word of the Lord.

"Any doctrine, whether it come in the name of religion, science, philosophy or whatever it may be, if it is in conflict with the revealed word of the Lord, it will fail. It may appear plausible. It may be put before you in language that appeals and which you may not be able to answer. It may appear to be established by evidence that you cannot controvert, but all you need to do is to abide your time. Time will level all things.

"You will find that every doctrine, theory, principle or matter universally believed—if it is not in accord with the divine word of the Lord to His servants, it will perish. Nor is it necessary for us to try to stretch the word of the Lord in the vain attempt to take it conform to these theories and teachings."

"Just For You" is just for the birds.

This column isn't going to overdo on the movie review situation this year because Provo cinemas are chronically filled without encouragement or discouragement from a fellow moviegoer. But when a picture arrives on the scene which is as childish, trite, and insipid as the recent fare at the Paramount, we feel it to be our duty to warn away even the most indiscriminating fans. Hollywood's boast of "Movies are better than ever," has had a shred of truth about it this summer with production of such gems as "Oceast of the Islands," "High Noon," and "Carrie," lately viewed by BYUers. But these triumphs are almost easy to forget after fifteen minutes of Bing, toupee, arrayed in a turtle neck and jumping around singing our choice for the most asinine song of the year, "Zing a Little Zong."

Inauguration Is Funqu

The most incredible aspect of the film is that it's based on a story by Pulitzer prize poet, Stephen Benet. The distortion of this story is in the worst possible taste, even to an industry where little is beyond possibility. It concerns a successful writer of what Hollywood imagines are Broadway type musicals, and his bratty little boy and girl. The father, it seems, has no time for these children and passes away hours in the clutches of his new show's leading lady, Jean Wyman. It could be said here that Miss Wyman is infinitely more desirable as the mute she plays in her Academy Award winning picture, "Johnny Belinda."

The plot plods along, giving the audience glimpses of a musical going into rehearsal, an incriminated governor carousing around the local precinct, and slobbery love scenes between Crosby and Wyman that could be surpassed by a Y frosh on his first date during "El week." Completely toting up the works is Crosby's son, a student of the mythical prep school of Spaulding. He slippers around, wearing button down collars and tweedy jackets in the best eastern school tradition, but without the adult approach to life that goes with his Harvard-Yale costume. As played by Bob Arthur, this son grows increasingly more noisome and when he finally comes out with his dramatic line, "You don't have to love someone just because he is your son," one is tempted to reply, "No one loves you Buster, so don't worry!" Jane Wyman also has a line that typifies the level of the entire production when she says to Bing, "Some women like their men's ties crooked." She pulls that one right after doing a strip act that belongs at Minsky's, rather than in a supposedly high class musical.

(Un) Happy Ending

Things come to a head as little Bobbie gallantly runs off to the protecting wings of the air force, and as the audience harked to the final strains of "Zing a Little Zong," (ugh) we dobered out into the night and the refuge of our History 70 book.

Running with this little horror was a short on the wrestling, which was vastly preferable to Bing and "Zing." The "Eyes, Ears, Nose and Throat" of the world pictured Nixon being vindicated and the comedy was above average.

Oh yes, from the Paramount previews we find that Rita Hayworth is back in what looks like a rubber stamp of "Gilda." You'd never know she's been away.

INTO THE PICTURE—Contractors' plans call for mid-November completion of the first of new housing units under construction (top). BYU's student service center will be ready winter quarter, the most complete unit of its kind in the west.

Work Speeds On Campus Buildings

The building expansion program on the BYU campus is progressing steadily, according to Ben E. Lewis, assistant treasurer, with the new Student Service Center and some housing units expected to be completed by winter quarter.

Mr. Lewis explained that shortages of materials have caused the principal delays on construction of the Service Center, originally scheduled for completion by Oct. 10. When completed, the building will have one of the finest college bookstores in the west, in addition to housing the campus post office, housing and rent offices, UNIVERSE and other campus publications, employment placement office, studentbody and student organization offices, coordinator's office, extension division, audio-visual aids, journalism department, and purchasing and receiving departments.

Present plans for the new dormitories call for completion of two units by Nov. 15, four by Dec. 16, and eight by Jan. 1. All sixteen units are expected to be ready for occupancy next autumn quarter.

Located north of Wymount Village, the new units will be apartment style dormitories, rather than the conventional type. Each of the 16 halls will house 48 students—24 on each floor. Each floor will be divided into four apartments to accommodate six students each, and will have three bedrooms, a kitchen-dining room combination, and bath. A central living room on each floor will serve all students on that floor. Students will manage their own apartments and prepare their meals under supervision by the home economics department.

In addition to these new buildings, now under construction, the current building program also includes a new wing on the Speech Center, machine shop, snack bar in the Smith building basement, and construction is expected to begin next spring on a new Family Life building to be built opposite the Science building.

Steinagel as ladies of the court. According to Dr. Hansen, there are still openings for several men to portray gentlemen of the court, and anyone interested in such a part should see Dr. Hansen at his office in the Speech Center at once.

Dr. Hansen also said that there are openings for people interested in any phase of backstage work such as properties, costumes, makeup, or set painting. People interested in such work should contact either Dr. Hansen or Prof. Alfred Sensenbath at the Speech Office.

As a special school service project, members of the Y-10192 social unit have each volunteered at least four hours of their time to help build sets for the play.

Service Deferment Test; Hershey States Provisions

"Increasing manpower demands make it important that each draftable student who has not taken the Selective Service College Qualification Test do so as soon as possible," according to Major General Lewis R. Hershey, Selective Service head. Nationwide students now deferred on the basis of test scores or class standards number about 190,000 out of 413,369 who have taken the tests.

BYU Postal Service Delivery Hours Set

Student mail will receive the same fast service on the campus as it would if mailed at the main Provo office.

Outgoing mail leaves the campus four times a day: 8 a.m., 9:15 a.m., 3:15 p.m., and 5 p.m., and meets outgoing dispatches from downtown. To receive one-day service to Idaho, mail must be in the drop box before 2 p.m. to arrive at Idaho points the following day.

Students living in private residences are urged to discontinue using General Delivery as the return address, because of the crowded conditions of the office.

Office hours must be strictly observed: 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Positively no service will be given before or after hours; or at any time at the back door.

Students are reminded to stand in a single line at the correct window for their service, and that stamps are not sold at the Money Order window. Officials suggest buying stamps in books or large amounts to save time and avoid the rush between classes.

The post office asks that students not add BYU to their return address, as BYU mail is separate from Station mail and the wrong designation will cause considerable delay. This is especially true if they live at one of the housing units off campus.

Immediately after the arrival of afternoon mail (3:15 to 3:45 p.m.) the windows will be closed for 10 to 14 minutes. This will speed up the service to boxes. Service will then be resumed until closing time at 4:30 p.m.

CATS COULDBE MONTANA 28-7

Brigham Young University quarterback LaVon Satterfield and Henry West passed the Cougars to a surprising 28-7 victory over the University of Montana Saturday afternoon before a disappointed Grizzly homecoming crowd.

It was a game marked by long passes, punting duels, and numerous penalties. In spite of the lopsided score, Montana made almost twice as many yards on the ground as did BYU.

Scattered up on the ground, the Cougars found themselves obliged to take to the air. Three of the four BYU touchdowns were run into the end zone, but it was the pinpoint passing of Satterfield and West that put them in position.

Montana coach, Ed Chinske, has fished a surprisingly tough crew of gridlers this year. It was largely due to their susceptibility to the Cougar air attack, plus several timely pass interceptions and recovered fumbles by BYU, that piled up the lopsided score.

Interception Sets Stage
A pass interception and a forty yard scramble by Jac Ballif in the first quarter quickly provided the Cougars with their first touchdown. Satterfield went around end from the six standing up.

Montana came back strong in the second period with a ground attack that carried the ball into the end zone. Organizing an impenetrable goal line stand, as they have in recent games, the Cougars held the Grizzlies for eight downs.

Bally in the third quarter, West dropped a 45 yard pass into the arms of end Owen Skowron for a touchdown, but it was nullified on illegal motion penalty.

Jac Ballif then tried for a Cougars field goal from the 22 yard line but it fell short.

Montana's quick-opening plays gained yardage throughout the game, pointing out the loss of last year's BYU guards John Poulson, Bob Flaherty, and Aylee Cleave.

Cats Air Minded
Montana's effectiveness on the ground and the Cougars' air superiority were evident in the yardage figures. BYU was 41 yards short of Montana in total yardage, but held a 181-yard passing advantage.

Harold Bellis, Grizzly punter, took top honors in that department. Bellis punted 316 yards in seven tries for an average of 45 yards.

Cougar fullback Don Woods picked off a Grizzly pass and laced-stepped his way over the goal line standing up from the 25 and line in the fourth quarter for the third Cougar score.

The Cougars completed nine of 15 attempted passes, and had one intercepted. Montana attempted six, completed none and had three intercepted—perhaps indicating that BYU is sharpening its aerial defense in preparation for meet the aerial machine of the University of Utah Saturday night.

Grizzlies Score in Fourth

The Grizzlies' only score came late in the fourth quarter as many of the Homecoming crowd were filing through the gates to go home. After a series of ground-gaining plays, Montana's Harold Gompf planned over from the three to make the score 21-7. After the Grizzlies kicked off, Whittaker and Stoworthy took the ball 40 yards in two plays. Elmo Rounby then carried the ball to the five-yard line after a Montana penalty. Satterfield passed to Skowron in the end zone for the final Cougar touchdown.

BYU's ground offense was checked by the running of Stoworthy, Chadwick, and Hamblin.

SLEEPY FELLOWS? Action during a recent Cougar football game seems to have slowed down for a rest. In reality, Bob Hamblin (25), Cat back, has just picked up some good yardage, assisted by Cougars Karol Bills (66) and Lewis Kocovar (67). The action was during the BYU-New Mexico game which the Y won by a score of 14-7.

'Mural Deadlines Near

Intramural sports swing into high gear early next week with the beginning of the touch football ball slate and the fall tennis tourney.

Closing dates for team entries in touch football is Friday night, as is the deadline for the tennis play.

Football entries must include the player list plus the team manager and name. Entries should be submitted to Dave Geddes in the Physical Education department in the field house.

The first meeting of the athletic chairman of the various units on campus discussed the possibility of changing from 'touch' football to 'flag' football and the opinion of the group seemed to favor the latter. No definite action was taken.

Redskins Take Beating From Arizona Wildcats

The Wildcats from the University of Arizona gave the University of Utah a humiliating defeat in the Ute Stadium Saturday night.

Stoworthy consistently gained yardage in his plunges through the middle. Jac Ballif, mentioned on several All-American defensive clubs in 1951, made all four conversions to keep intact his perfect point-after-touchdown record this season.

It was by a missed point-after-touchdown last year that BYU lost 7-6 to the University of Utah.

day night, as they completely outplayed the home-standing Redskins.

Having lost one previous game to the Oregon Staters in their first game of the season and tying the Idaho Vandals, the 'Slids' were itching to get into the win column, but found themselves a bit short of the goal. The score was 27-0 for the visiting Arizona crew.

Scoring twice in the first quarter, once in the second frame and once in the last half, the Wildcats unleashed such a fury that the Redmen could do little to stop their ground and passing attacks.

Utah will play host to the BYU Cougars in Salt Lake on Saturday night in a game listed as a BYU "home game."

Wyoming Beats Aggies For Second Loop Win; Utags Miss 'Babe' Dinan

The University of Wyoming, behind the triple-threat work of Chuck Spalding, charged to a 14-0 victory over a scrappy Utah State team in Logan on Saturday.

Although the Farmers dominated in almost every statistical department, they could not muster the lead in the scoring department. It was their first conference loss.

It was a story of Spalding's long, accurate passes, long, looping kicks and smashing power plays that spelled the difference in the final tally.

The Staters desperately needed the services of Paul 'Babe' Dinan, one of the most outstanding backs in the conference, who was sitting on the AC bench in his number three clothes as a result of injuries.

The Utah Staters, gave a good account of them selves on several defensive occasions. In the first quarter with only a few inches remaining for a Cowboy tally, the Farmers bristled and froze on the spot, stopping the oncoming Pokes on the one inch line, up a total of 12 first downs as compared to 7 for the visitors.

The Staters dominated in the rushing, passing, net yardage gained and several other departments, but Coach John Roning was the first to point out the futility of that kind of logic.

Both teams have previously defeated the University of Montana for a mark in the Conference win column and this marks the second game of the season in Conference play for the two teams. BYU plays Utah State on November 15 in Logan and Wyoming on November 1 in Provo.

A Word to the Y-se —by Ted Johnson

... AND A WORD ON SPORTSMANSHIP

As I sit here and sharpen up my knives and axes, polish up my brass knuckles and limber up by blackjack and drink of the merry dew around the corner, namely, Saturday night, there comes a strange feeling. What if I got hurt? Those Utes may be rough!

Therefore fellow patriots, let's consider a few articles of gentlemanly conduct in relation to our adventure on the gridiron next weekend, or any sporting event, for that matter.

The Utah game has, for ages, been the big battle of the year. This year will be no different. Get the picture—the Cats and the Redskins facing each other in pitched battle on the latter's home field, but, in fact, the game will be a Cougar home game. That means that the same situation will exist as when the Y and the U met on the basketball court two years ago when the Cougar hoopsters were using the "Sicn athletic plants for their home games."

BYU fans will be at the game en masse since the Y studentbody will be admitted to the game by the presentation of their activity cards and there will be an unlimited number of seats reserved for that purpose. Judging from present emphasis, the stands will be packed, as usual, but with Cougar fans in the majority.

With the stands full of howling Cougar supporters, the Utes are likely to take to the situation like a chicken takes to water. I can see why, and therefore, as a matter of prevention instead of so much cure, let's take a look at what BYU students could encourage and set for their standard of behavior at all athletic contests.

Everyone enjoys seeing a member of his favorite team make an outstanding play or perform an act of sportsmanship on the athletic field, whether it be in the World Series, on the college gridiron or the M-Men basketball court. When such an event occurs, there is likely to be considerable praise from the home stands. The point I am trying to convey is that any such performance should demand our praise, not just for the home squad.

Since I enrolled in ye olde school, it has been very rare that any opponent received a round of applause for a particularly fine exhibition. It would be a mark of distinction if BYU could set the precedent of giving praise where praise is due.

However, that doesn't mean that all the Cougar stands should leap to their feet and cheer madly if they should push across a touchdown. It does mean that we should not ignore an exception if it becomes it was pulled off by the Redskins or some opposing aggregation.

Cougar teams have been and still are noted all over the world for their outstanding qualities of sportsmanship. They are marked as an unusual team for their conduct on the athletic contest field. We, as students of the Y, have a responsibility to back up these teams with every bit as good a display of common courtesy and sportsmanship as they display in our behalf. Just because some other schools do not observe a code of ethics in regards to their cheering and jeering and ball games, and I refer to no particular institution, is no reason for such conduct on our part. The spirit of the Y is far, far bigger than the worn-out and far too prevalent practice of poor spectator sportsmanship.

A gigantic step in bettering the relations between BYU and Utah has been made and will be realized after the game on Saturday. The Associated Men Students of the two schools will hold a jointly sponsored dance in the Student Union building on the U campus. This could well be the key to better relationships between the schools in regards to athletic events. An outstanding orchestra will be in attendance to furnish the dreamy notes and admission will be free.

I can see no better place for a continuance of Hello week activity and displaying the "Spirit of the Y" in as shiny a show-case as possible.

By the way, I lost my knife and axe and I don't know how to use the brass hardware or the 'jack.

Colags Top Denver 28-6 In Initial Skyline Contest

The University of Denver and Colorado A&M knocked the lid off their conference schedules last Saturday when the two clubs met in battle in Denver.

The Rams from Fort Collins displayed a polished passing attack that routed the Pioneers and scored for three of the visitors' four touchdowns.

Quarterback Don' Burroughs pitched the three scoring passes that blanked the Denverites until the final quarter when they scored on a sustained drive.

The other Aggie tally came in the first half on a quick opening play from the eight yard line. The final score was 28-6 for the Rams.

The BYU Cougars will play host to Denver in the next game in the Y stadium on Oct. 25, which is the homecoming game for the Cats. The Y squad will travel to Fort Collins for a shot at the Colags on Nov. 22.

In other western football play, Oregon's Webfoots fought an uphill battle to drop the Idaho Vandals 28-14. Oregon Staters felt happy about holding Michigan State to a 17-14 win at Portland and Stanford managed to stop a determined and strong Michigan squad 14-7 in Palo Alto.
